GEORGE H. LYON WINS CLARK PRIZE CONTEST

ON "MILITANT JOURNALISM."

Strong Orations and Good Delivery Mark 58th Annual K. P. Exhibition.

In the midst of keen competition George Harry Lyon, of Binghamton, won the 58th Clark Prize Exhibition wresting the victory with difficulty from his five rivals for that highest honor in the department of Public Speaking at Hamilton College. The six orations were delivered in the Stone Church, Clinton, on Wednesday evening, May 28th. They were picked orations, about fifteen Seniors who had distinguished themselves in public speaking during their four years being eligible to write. The speakers were: Dan Craig Batchelor, of Camden, on "Militant Journalism"; Allen Morton Groves, of Seattle, Wash., on "An Anglo-American Alliance"; George Harry Lyon, of Binghamton, on "Militant Journalism"; Erskine Reed Myer, of Columbus, Ohio, on "Judicial Usurpation"; Walter Edwin Peck, of Ashtabula, Ohio, on "Nietzsche"; and Charles Denslow Wheelock, of Boonville, on "Nietzsche." The program was enlivened by several selections from the College Mandolin Quartet.

Prof. Calvin Leslie Lewis presided over the contest. Following the invocation by Rev. Colson '87, of New York Mills, the Mandolin Quartet struck up some lively airs while the late comers were seated. Finally the doors were ordered closed and Dan Craig Batchelor was called to the stage as the first speaker of the evening.

The large audience which had assembled was well repaid for braving the disagreeable weather, as the exhibition proved to be both interesting and entertaining. Twice was the audience convinced of the value and power of "Militant Journalism," while the last two speakers extolled the sincerity and constancy of the great philosopher Nietzsche. The repetition of subjects, however, did not in the slightest degree detract from the interest of the contest as the speakers treated their topics in totally different ways and their styles of delivery were strikingly dissimilar.

"Militant Journalism."

The speakers were introduced in alphabetical order. Dan Craig Batchelor, of Camden, spoke first, his subject being "Militant Journalism." His oration was exceedingly well written and he spoke easily and impressively. Milton was the first militant journalist. His "Areopagitica" began the struggle for the "Freedom of Unlicensed Printing." To the efforts of men like Defoe, Swift and Addison we owe our modern press. But the militancy of modern journalism, however, is daily becoming more doubtful. Many journals have become the prey of party and advertisement, but there is also a

MANAGERS AND ASSISTANTS ELECTED AT JUNE MEETING

Marsh and Clark for Musical Clubs, White and Smith for Baseball, Dieterlin and Thorne for Track, Jessup for Intramural, Ogilvie for Charlatans. Discussion of Training

The Association for Undergraduate activities held its annual June meeting last night in Commons. Following the reading of the minutes and the Treasurer's report by Prof. Hastings, President Wood of the Association called for nominations for manager of Baseball. White, '15, the former assistant manager, was nominated and elected by acclamation. Two Freshman candidates were nominated for assistant manager, Smith and Pope. Smith was elected by a good majority.

Dieterlin, '15, was nominated for manager of Track Athletics and elected by acclamation. Manager Bristol in nominating two men for assistant manager named Aldrich, '16, and Thorne, '16. He explained at the same time that a third candidate for the position, Baldwin, deserved hardly less consideration although he did not receive the nomination. Thorne was elected by a close ballot.

Pres. Wood called for nominations for manager of Musical Clubs to fill the place left vacant by Lyon, ex-'14, assistant-manager-elect, who has left College. Marsh, Booth, and Mengerink, '14, were nominated. On the first ballot no one received a majority and the two high candidates were voted on again, Marsh receiving the election.

Barber, '13, reported for the committee which had in charge the repairing of the board walk last year and moved that a per capita tax be levied to pay the outstanding bills for that work. The motion was carried.

Jessup, '15, was nominated for manager of Intramural Sports and elected by acclamation. Ogilvie and Fulton, '15, were nominated for manager of the Charlatans. Ogilvie was elected.

Adams and Clark, '15, were nominated for assistant manager of Musical Clubs, and Clark received the election.

Captain Royce of the Baseball team announced that five men on the team had flagrantly broken training. Myer, '13, moved that they be named and barred from receiving their letters this year. Captain Royce asked to be relieved from naming the men. After some discussion the College voted to leave the matter as to who should not be recommended for letters to the captain. After some further discussion of training the meeting adjourned.

CHARLATANS HOLD MEETING.

A meeting of the Charlatans was held Saturday morning after Chapel. Pres. Jessup, '14, appointed Peck, '13, and McGibeny, '14, to act with himself as a committee for the selection of next year's play. Frank Lee Short, who successfully coached this year's production, will work in conjunction with this committee and has already been secured to coach next year's play.

LIT. BOARD ELECTS.

At a meeting of the Lit. Board yesterday the following men were elected to the Board: Carmer, '14, Erhardt and Kimball, '15, H. Davis and McLean, '16. Weaver, '14, was elected editor-in-chief for the coming year.

—The Track elections will be held this afternoon at 2:15 in the Gym.

SENIORS WALLOP PROFS IN BASEBALL BATTLE

VICTORS FEAR FOR DEGREES.

Despite Ristine's Writhings and Cal's Cavortings, Undergrads Win 11—4.

This is a story of the Ancient and Honorable Order of the Faculty.

It is a tragedy, grim and sordid, the story of eight good men and true—and a worthy Alumnus. How the breath of Spring whispered in their ears and told them that the glories of their youth were not far off. And how the breath of Spring lied.

History relateth not who was the instigator of the crime, but suspicion and Dame Rumor points to one Chub Ristine. When you're young it's the boy who owns the ball and bat that is permitted to pitch. When you're grown up it's the man that starts the thing who claims the honor of twirling 'em over. That is how the aforementioned Chub gets it in the neck.

To get down to the facts of the case and call the defendant to the bar, the Faculty played ball Thursday afternoon. The game was held on Thursday because Friday was a holiday and a lame professor is not among the joyous sights of the earth. The Faculty—or rather the eight of them who were unable to arrange previous engagements — were lined up against the Seniors. When the smoke of battle cleared away, it was discovered that the cause of emphasis, unity and coherence had scored four runs while their lawful prey, the rough-neck Seniors, had managed to corner eleven. A priori, and a posteriori as well, the score was 11-4 in favor of the undergraduates.

Faculty Twirler Brilliant.

For an inning the mainstay of the English Lit course and his unified clique from Wabash kept the Seniors with nary a run. His Beowulf ball had smoke. Spenserian curves that Umpire-Myer-thirteen alternately pronounced balls and strikes mingled with the Essays-of-Elia-drop. His wind-up defied the photographers. Every move was a picture. But it's not to be inferred that Chub was the whole team, not by a big sight. There was Cal on second—and he scooped up Dan Chase's heaves with gusto,to say nothing of his wing to Batchelor on the coaching line. Brownie put his knowledge of cosines to practical use and described parabolas at short that excited envious wrath in the heart of Manager Carruth on the bench.

And then Bib!

Don't tell anybody about it, but Bib joined D. T. Cleveland King put the cute little cap on his head and joyfully swatted him across the shoulders while the rest of the Faculty team attempted to summon its nerve and do likewise. But the prospect of library fines loomed large—and money's tight these days.

The Last Game.

The Baseball team will play Colgate here tomorrow in the last game of the season. So far the team has won four games and lost five. The best it can do is to finish with an average of .500. If it wins this game against Colgate, as it won the second game with the same team last year, the College will feel that it can overlook much that is past. If it loses this game, no blind optimism, spontaneous or forced, can make out that the season has been a success.

At the beginning of the season everything spoke in favor of a successful outcome. Facilities for early practice were better than ever before, the coach was here to begin work with the squad indoors long before the snows were gone, and above all, the material—good material—was plentiful. Two-thirds of the team were Freshmen. Not one is a Senior. Those men, with the experience which they will have had playing together, have the opportunity of developing into the finest baseball team Hamilton ever had. The outcome of tomorrow's game will have a large influence on the future success of the team. Winning the game will mean winning confidence in themselves as a team, a spirit which will go far in inaugurating a good season next year. The College does not need to be urged to do all in its power to help win that game tomorrow. It is enough to say that we play Colgate, at home, the last game of the season, and that we beat them in the twelfth inning last year.

What Others Say.

The Union Concordiensis, in its account of the baseball game which Union lost to Hamilton here a week ago, made some statements which should be of interest to every undergraduate and Alumnus of Hamilton College. The article in itself was highly offensive, even insulting, and does little credit to the editor who permitted its publication or to the college whose attitude it would seem to represent. It is, in fact, not a account of the game, but an attempt, apparently written by a member of the beaten team, to explain away the defeat on the grounds of poor diamond, poor umpiring and general hard luck. Its interest to Hamilton men lies not in these excuses, however, for they can hurt none so much as the college which makes them, but in the following quoted lines:

"The Hamilton diamond is conceded to be the worst college diamond in New York State and it certainly looked the part. The infield was covered with a nine inch blanket of wet grass and the mud along the base lines was knee deep. The Hamilton catcher found it necessary to use sawdust to absorb the lake-like formation around home plate."

Obviously, these bitter remarks, founded in the gaul and wormwood of defeat, are to be taken with several grains of salt, but even then, the fact that such things can be written deserves serious consideration. That some provocation existed is not to be denied. That plans are already under way for removing such provocation for the future should be a source of extreme gratification to Hamilton men.

Two thousand dollars have been set aside by the Trustees for the improvement of the Athletic Field. These improvements cannot be made too soon nor too well. The whole field should be drained and leveled, the "nine inch blanket of grass" should be removed from the diamond, and the running track should be entirely rebuilt. The slowness of the track this season was responsible for the fact that no good records were made. The work should be put in the hands of an expert and no other, as the unsatisfactory condition of the new indoor running track plainly shows. If the sum of money already granted for these improvements is found not to be sufficient, there should be no hesitation about granting more. The work cannot be successful unless it is done completely.

REVIEW OF TRACK SEASON SHOWS MUCH TO PRAISE

Risley Did Much With Raw Material. 2 Records Broken. 12 Men Win Letters. Few of Squad to Go.

The Track season which ended at Hamilton a week ago Saturday was in many ways the most successful within the memory of the present Senior class. Not only was the season a success on account of the actual number of points accumulated, but, what is just as important, it gives unusual promise for next year. Instead of the point-winning being done by men who graduate this June the squad consisted almost entirely of men from the three lower classes, many of them Sophomores and Freshmen. The results of the season show what can be accomplished by enthusiasm and hard work. Early this spring, before track practice began, things looked about as dismal as they could. For various reasons, hardly any of last year's team were left, and there were only two sure point-winners on the squad.

That was how the prospects looked in the early part of April. Then the coach and captain got busy coaxing the squad into reasonable proportions. Within the first few weeks the number of men out increased to thirty, and by dint of hard work many of them were soon in shape to take second and third places, if nothing better.

George Potter in the dashes was one of the finds of the season. He already rivals Fritz Lee in both the hundred and the two-twenty and has a chance for great improvement. Lee deserves especial praise for his development this spring. He was high point-winner for Hamilton in each of the dual meets held here, and won a total of thirty-three points in the whole season.

Two New Records.

Two College records were broken during the season, those for the high-jump and for the hammer-throw. Banks, '16, reached a height of 5 ft. 9 1-4 in. in the former event in the Interclass Meet, smashing the record of 5 ft. 8 in. held by Bagg, '07. In the meet with Union "Ted" Jessup established a new record by throwing the hammer 131 ft. 6 1-2 in. The old record was 124 ft. 8 in., made by Blakely, '03, in May, '03.

Especial credit for the successful outcome of the season is due to Coach Floyd Risley, whose services were secured for a sceond time this year. He accepted the position of coach while not believing there was any prospect for a good season, and it was largely through his efforts that a winning team was finally developed from the raw material. The College hopes to have him again next year.

The men who won their Track "H" during the season were: Shaul, '13, Caldwell Thompson, '13, True, '13, Carmer, '14, Jessup, '14, Leavenworth, '14, T. Lee, '14, F. Lee, '15, Potter, '15, Banks, '16, Bushnell, '16, Mattoon, '16. Of these, all but Shaul, Jessup and F. Lee won it for the first time.

The Season.

The season began on May 10 with the Rochester Meet, the first outdoor meet held with that university. Hamilton won 70 to 47, a score which was particularly gratifying because Rochester had been confidently expecting victory. The Juniors were easy winners of the Interclass Handicap Track Meet held May 15. The score was: Juniors 51, Sophomores 34 1-2, Freshmen 31 1-2, Seniors 24. The feature of the meet was Banks' record-breaking high jump. On account of the heavy handicaps allowed, most of the events were captured by "dark horses." In the meet with Union, which came on the twentieth, the team showed up better than ever, and lost out more by hard luck than by any fault of their own. Hamilton took the lead in the first part of the meet. Later on, however, Baker of Union won three first places, in the pole vault, high-jump and broad-jump, and Union won by a score of 61 to 56.

Hamilton sent a team of eighteen men to Colgate for the Intercollegiate Meet, and gave Union a hard fight for second place. Colgate far outclassed the other teams. The final score stood: Colgate 67, Union 37 1-2, Hamilton 35, St. Lawrence 3 1-2. Fritz Lee ran the race of the day in the quarter-mile, taking his revenge on LeBarron when he beat the Union man out by a scant yard. Carmer and T. Lee did fine work in the half-mile. By wonderful sprinting, they finished a close second and third in a race which broke the N. Y. S. I. A. U. record for the distance.

This year's work gives unmistakable promise of a fine season next spring. This year a winning team was developed out of almost nothing. Next season hardly any men will be lost, while most of the members of this year's squad will have greatly improved. About next May we will have a track team which, in the words of Captain Wenigmann, "will be able to clean up on anything around here." The great weakness of the team at present is in the hurdles and the distances, and it is probable that next year's Freshman class will bring in men to round out those events.

ORGAN MUSIC PROGRAM.

Organist Goodenough has arranged the following program of Organ Music for this week: Tuesday, "Prelude and Fugetta in D Moll," by Bach; Wednesday, "Bleed and Break Thou Loving Heart" (St. Matthew's Passion), by Bach; Thursday, "Prelude and Fugge Fugetta in F," by Bach; Friday, "I Would Beside My Lord" (St. Matthew's Passion), by Bach; Saturday, "Prelude and Fugetta in G Moll," by Bach; Monday, "Here Yet Awhile" (St. Matthew's Pasion), by Bach.

BASEBALL TEAM LOSES TO BOTH COLGATE AND UNION

Royce and Daniels Pitch Well but Infield is Erratic and Union Pitcher Strong.

Hamilton got a poor start in her first Colgate game of the season last Tuesday at Hamilton, when three errors in the first inning gave the Maroon two runs. Four more were added in the fourth by hitting, Hamilton tallied twice in the fifth, and Colgate later added two more, bringing the final verdict up to 8-2 in favor of the home team.

Daniels was on the mound for the Hamiltonians, and with the exception of the fourth inning, he pitched excellent ball. The weather was bad, a fine rain being in the air for the greater part of the contest. Daniels pitched the full nine innings, and although fourteen hits were secured off him, they were for the most part well scattered, and had it not been for errors the Colgate team would not have scored more than four runs. The Freshman twirler was rather strong in the pinches, his three strike outs being scored against "Laje" McLaughlin, Colgate's star left fielder.

Colgate scored twice in the opening inning on errors by S. Miller and Higgins. After Daniels had made a start by fanning McLaughlin and forcing Robinson to hit weakly to Cheese who threw the Maroon catcher out at first. Hammond hit a grounder to Griffith who fielded the ball well to Miller, but the first baseman dropped the throw. A similar error by Sid when Abell hit to Daniels put two men on bases. Then Perin hit a pop-fly to Higgins and the latter dropped the ball, allowing two tallies to come in. Daniels then walked Edgerton, but the inning ended when Rothensies threw Kingsley out at first.

Hamilton's two tallies came in the first of the fifth and both were earned. After Griffith had popped to Brown and A. Miller had fouled out to Robinson, Daniels drove a clean double down the first-base line. McLouth ran for Daniels. M. Gow singled, scoring McLouth, and the hitter took second on the throw to the plate. Royce doubled to left, McLaughlin falling as he went after the ball, and Gow scored. But Higgins ended the inning with a grounder to Brown who retired him at first.

In the seventh inning Colgate made four singles and scored but one run.

THE UNION GAME.

Superb pitching backed by the brilliant fielding of the Union team and errors at critical moments by the Hamilton infield spelled a 5 to 0 defeat at the hands of Union last Saturday afternoon. The team lacked the "pep" and ginger that it possessed when it defeated Union a week ago. The fielding was ragged and the batting miserable although the masterful pitching of Hummer must be taken into consideration.

Hummer, the Union Freshman, who defeated West Point two weeks ago, was master of the game at all times. But twenty-eight men faced the Union twirler in nine innings, he struck out thirteen of these and gave but one base on balls. Only three men got to first base, two to second, and not one to third. Up to the seventh inning not a man had reached first base and the Union rooters were clamoring for a no-hit game. M. Gow blasted that hope by lifting a clean single over second in the first half of the seventh. Royce came through with a hit in the next inning and that finished Hamilton's hitting for the day..

Steve Royce also pitched excellent ball. All but one of the runs that were made off him can be attributed directly or indirectly to infield errors. His control was perfect, not allowing a base on balls. Of the six hits that he allowed two were scratch.

The feature of the game was a double play from Hummer to second baseman Giddings, which blighted Hamilton's hope of scoring. With Gow on second and none down, Griffith in attempting to bunt lifted a short pop fly down the third base line. Hummer rushed in, seized the ball with his bare hands just as it was about to touch the ground, wheeled and threw to second in time to catch Gow off the bag.

HAMILTON LIFE.

GEORGE H. LYON WINS CLARK PRIZE CONTEST.

slowly strengthening belief that only the battle for a high and worthy purpose brings ultimate victory. "Publishers are beginning to learn that there is money in courage and ability." The fruits of this new conception have been such men as Bennet, Greeley, Dana and Pulitzer. "In no spirit of blind optimism may we forecast that day in which there shall be deliverance from all political bondage, with truth and fearlessness of utterance."

The Anglo-American Alliance proposed by the second speaker, Allen Morton Groves, was justified on the basis of the friendly spirit existant between Great Britain and the United States, and because of the bonds of a common race and language, of common laws, customs and ideals. "Standing in the way of an Anglo-American Alliance is nothing more substantial than a tradition." Such an alliance should concern the preserving of peace, should establish free trade between the two nations and provide for a common citizenship making Englishmen and Americans members of a single political family.

The Prize Oration.

George Harry Lyon, of Binghamton, delivered his splendid oration on "Militant Journalism" with such conviction and earnestness that his hearers forgot that he was a prize contestant and listened with intense interest to his message as coming from a man who had had experience in journalism. His delivery was artistic but he seemed to pay more attention to his subject than tohis gestures and oratorical expression. Militant journalism is the answer to an age which demands a tribune of the people. "It must seek truth, and finding truth give it to the public without prejudice or favor, regarding neither whom nor where it may strike." Paul, Defoe, Greeley, each great militant journalist of the past, fought against strong opposition and was branded as the enemy of the age in which he lived. But the successes of these men in reform, in battling corruption and vice, have been duplicated by many recent exposures made by newspapers. The speaker cited instance upon instance of great services which modern militant journalism has rendered to the public. His oration closed with a forcible "Philippic" against the conservative journals which had kept silent during the great struggles against vice and corruption.

Erskine Reed Myer was the fourth speaker. He condemned the courts for declaring void laws for "living wages at living hours," laws for compensation of workmen injured, for the betterment of social conditions, because they "infringed upon your rights as guaranteed in your constitution." Myer spoke very distinctly, his careful articulation being almost too noticeable to have a good effect.

"Nietzsche."

The last two speakers had chosen the same subject, "Nietzsche." Both spoke well. Walter Edwin Peck was the most artistic speaker of the evening. His voice was clear and musical, and his motions which at times were a little dramatic were expressive and graceful. The subject, which necessitated a rather vague and abstract treatment, suffered in comparison with the extremely practical treatment which Lyon gave to a subject filled with modern interest. Charles Denslow Wheelock, the last speaker, said that the cry which had come echoing down the ages was "Whither go ye?" That he might give his answer to that eternal question, Nietzsche, musician, poet, prophet, philosopher and teacher, paid the price of ridicule, accusation, abuse and terrible solitude. "The true aristocrat, the superman, was like himself, the sham-smasher, the apostle of truth."

At the conclusion of the program the members of the Faculty retired to vote upon the contest, and after an interval of about five minutes the decision in favor of Lyon was announced and received with hearty applause.

NORTHFIELD CONFERENCE.

Opportunity Offered Students for Hearing Fine Speakers.

The Northfield Student Conference this year, which extends from June 20 to 29, offers many inducements. Besides the speaking there will be baseball games, tennis and swimming matches. The list of speakers, which is unusually attractive, includes the following men: Robert Speer, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church; Dean Charles Reynolds Brown, of the Yale Divinity School; C. T. Wang, a graduate of Yale and a leader in the awakening of China; John R. Mott, the only layman who ever received a D. D. degree; Right Reverend Chas. H. Brent, Bishop of the Philippines; "Ned" Carter, who after graduating from Harvard spent two years in India; Baron Paul Nicolay of Russia; Pastor LeSeur of Berlin; George Sherwood Eddy and the Right Reverend Philip M. Rhinelander, Bishop of Pennsylvania.

"Tad" Weeks, '08, writes to one of the fellows on the Hill as follows: "If the fellows knew what it was, and what a good time it held out, they would all be keen tocome. One meets so many new college men there and gets to know such a fine crowd that it's one of the greatest opportunities of a college course. Here's every good wish to the fellows of the delegation."

About fifteen of the Y. M. C. A. members are going to take Weeks' advice and go to Northfield. If any others wish to go they should communicate at once with Pres. Barnes, '14, for the accommodations must be arranged beforehand.

COLLEGE RECEIVES MONEY.

By the will of the late Henry M. Flagler the College is the recipient of $100,000, under circumstances similar to those by which the College received a like amount last year from the estate of William S. Kennedy. President Stryker received notification last Monday morning to that effect from Mr. Flagler's trustees.

The former multimillionaire leaves the bulk of his estate to his widow, the only other large bequests being $100,000 to J. R. Parrot, now President of the Florida East Coast RR., and $75,000 to the Flagler Memorial Church at St. Augustine, Florida. Other colleges mentioned in the will as beneficiaries are cut off by codicils as having been otherwise aided since the will was made.

SENIORS WALLOP PROFS IN BASEBALL BATTLE.

The crowd was interesting. A partisan crowd is largely interesting. This one wanted to see the Faculty come out ahead, if the volume of racket counted for anything. The deplorable side of the thing was that you might have thought some of the boys were trying to get a supe. "Battle bravely," the crowd exhorted the pedagogues. "Make 'em be over, Rocks, and get a field trip." "Hold the bat filum side up, Pills: that's it, get a good fulcrum." "Tertium quid, there, Cal, for heaven's sake, tertium quid." Rough talk, it was, and plenty of it. And through it all Bib sat on the bench like a real player and smiled every time Chub hit a Senior bat with the ball because he thought that Chub's marksmanship counted and that the glories of the Bodleian and the Bibliotheque Nationale were again coming into their own.

Five Innings Enough.

But to get back to the game. It was a good contest with lots of life on both sides. Batchelor held the Faculty to two hits and had it not been for a generous sprinkling of errors would have scored a shut-out. Platt Osborne, who was inveigled into coming up the Hill on a promise that he could umpire, was shoved into Davy's regular position at first. Cal called him down for what he did. We wont. Aside from his errors the Faculty team fielded like veterans and made their wives proud of 'em. Most of the wives were there to laugh with the undergraduates. Such is the cruelty of woman. We feel the story of the game coming on again. The Seniors batted around in the third and again in the fourth, netting a total of nine runs, while the most that the Faculty could do was a brace of scores in the third and one in each of the two succeeding innings. The game was called in the fifth on account of dinner and fear that the umpire might not escape the wrath of the infuriated bleachers.

For the sake of dignity a box-score is appended.

HINTS FROM HAMILTONIAN

1914 Class Book at Binders—to be Ready Soon.

At last it is done. All copy for the Hamiltonian is with the printer and a good share of the proof read. Editor-in-Chief Marsh has purchased a ticket for Poughkeepsie where he will be forced to spend the remainder of his days, a raving maniac. Business Manager Gates has filed a petition in bankruptcy and has applied for admission to a neighboring poor house. The guys that made the drawings have formed a club and have drawn up a petition to his Satanic Majesty, suggesting that hereafter the inmates of Hell be sentenced for eternity to drawing cartoons for college annuals. The rest of the board are lying low until the huricane has passed.

Our special correspondent took down the following in an interview with a member of the Board: "The book is perfect—we have to admit it. We are sorry to leave nothing to be criticised, but we couldn't help it. In fact, we like it so well we've bought up most of the issue in advance ourselves so as to be sure and have plenty to give our friends. You'd better get down on one of Gatesy's order blanks considerable quick if you're not there already. Wait till they see those scurfs. Then for Normy's cyclone cellar."

GAMES HERE SATURDAY.

The leaders in the four Prep Baseball Leagues will play on Steuben Field Saturday, June 7. At 9 o'clock Oneida will play Clinton, and at 11 Newark will meet the Delaware County team. The two victorious teams will play for the silver cup at 3:30. Each of the four teams will receive a pennant.

—Married, in Brooklyn, May 31, John D. Clark, '06, to Miss Blanche Craig Young, of Brooklyn.
